INTRODUCTION

Thailand

The Andaman Sea is the eastern-most part of the Indian Ocean and is located west of Thailand. There are beautiful islands and fine, sandy beaches along the western shore that touches it.

The most striking thing about Andaman is its beaches, which adorn the many pristine islands. Shimmering blue waters, smooth sands, and exciting water sports await you.

The many fish species and vast coral reefs make these seas some of the best scuba diving spots in the world, providing experiences you will never forget.

DAYS 1&2

Koh Lipe 2 HOUR CRUISE

In the local Chao Ley language, 'Ko Lipe' means 'Paper Island'. Ko Lipe is home to a number of Chao Ley (literally, people from the sea), who were granted the right to settle on the island back in 1909.

You can walk from one end of Ko Lipe to the other in just 30 minutes. The island has three main beaches; Pattaya beach, Sunrise beach, and Sunset beach, all within 15 minutes' walking distance of one another. In addition, a number of uninhabited islands, such as Koh Adang and Koh Rawi, are just a short boat journey away. West of the island are some of the best scuba diving spots in the world and near the Jabang area, one can see black rock beach and coral reefs that stretch far and deep.

SUGGESTION

We suggest staying in Koh Lipe for one night at anchor and depart the following afternoon to Koh Rok Noi. The vast amount of snorkeling spots in the area must be explored and the beaches are incredible. Relax beneath the palms or try the different watersports we offer.

DAY 3

Koh Rok Noi 2 HOUR CRUISE

Koh Rok Noi comprises two small islands: Nok and Nai. Nok Island is ideal for scuba diving with excellent water quality, coral reefs and many fish. On Nai Island, there is a waterfall in the south-west, which is the island's main landmark – the falls drop straight into the sea.

The shallow reefs here are an amazing destination for snorkeling, jet skiing and all watersports. There are spots situated on both sides on the two islands where you will find a great array of sea life and generally the currents are not very strong making for an easy-going swim and relaxing time in the water. Our top tip is to rake the tender and go right up to the waterfall.

SUGGESTION

We suggest spending a full day here to properly enjoy the reefs and all the watersports you have energy for! Hop back onboard for a great lunch. In the evening we will sail to island of Koh Libong, so you can awake to views of the largest island in this area.

DAY 4

Ko Libong 2 HOUR CRUISE

The largest but certainly not busiest island in Trang province, Ko Libong lulls travelers into a simpler state of mind with its unusual landscapes. Lucky visitors might even catch a glimpse of an endangered dugong - close cousins of the manatee and more distantly related to elephants.

The Dugong habitat is situated on the east side of the island and for those scuba diving the chances of seeing one are good year-round. Venture ashore here for the beach resort and bars.

SUGGESTION

A lot of the reef is un-swimmable during low tide, but there are spots within close reach of the yacht where you can dive or take the tender to a snorkeling spot. A full day of watersports and swimming here is a must to take it all in. You can head to the island of Ko Muk next after a short night cruise.

DAY 5

Koh Muk 1.5 HOUR CRUISE Koh Lanta Bay 2 HOUR CRUISE

Koh Mook, often also called Koh Muk, is a small and idyllic island in the Andaman Sea, south of Thailand. Much of the island is covered in deep jungle but there are also some small villages. The coast, in turn, is lined with palm trees, gigantic cliffs and gorgeous beaches that invite you to relax.

The best attractions here are the breathtaking Emerald Cave (Morakot Cave) and the snow-white Sivalai Beach. The open cave has an entrance that you must swim into.

SUGGESTION

Anchoring near Koh Muk, we encourage you to visit the emerald cave. At high tide it can be tricky to swim in but it's a MUST SEE! Spending a half a day in this beautiful place and taking in the jungle landscapes of this paradise island, we can then make our way to Koh Lanta Bay where there is a beautiful beach to take in some sun and enjoy a swim. Snorkeling and jet skiing around here is also possible.

DAY 6

Maya Bay HALF DAY Koh Phi Phi

Maya beach is the famous location where the movie "The Beach" starring Leonardo Di Caprio was filmed. The bay was then closed for three years allowing the coral and natural marine life to grow back. The fish have re-populated and this gorgeous bay is rich in sea life once again.

DAY 7

Phuket

Explore from Chicken Island to Coconut beach, visiting the many resorts and beach clubs, and doing a little local shopping. Setting your sights on a full day out here before finishing your journey is the best way to end an epic vacation.

SUGGESTION

This area has a lot of hidden gems, where the waters are still clear before you get to Phuket itself. Naka Island is very close to the Marina and therefore guests who need to get to the airport can easily be taken from this location by tender. But before you leave, Chicken Island and the beach resort can be one last relaxing stop. There are activities on land such as quad biking and some inflatable slides in the water at the beach club.
